

I've felt that way many, many times.

Oh?

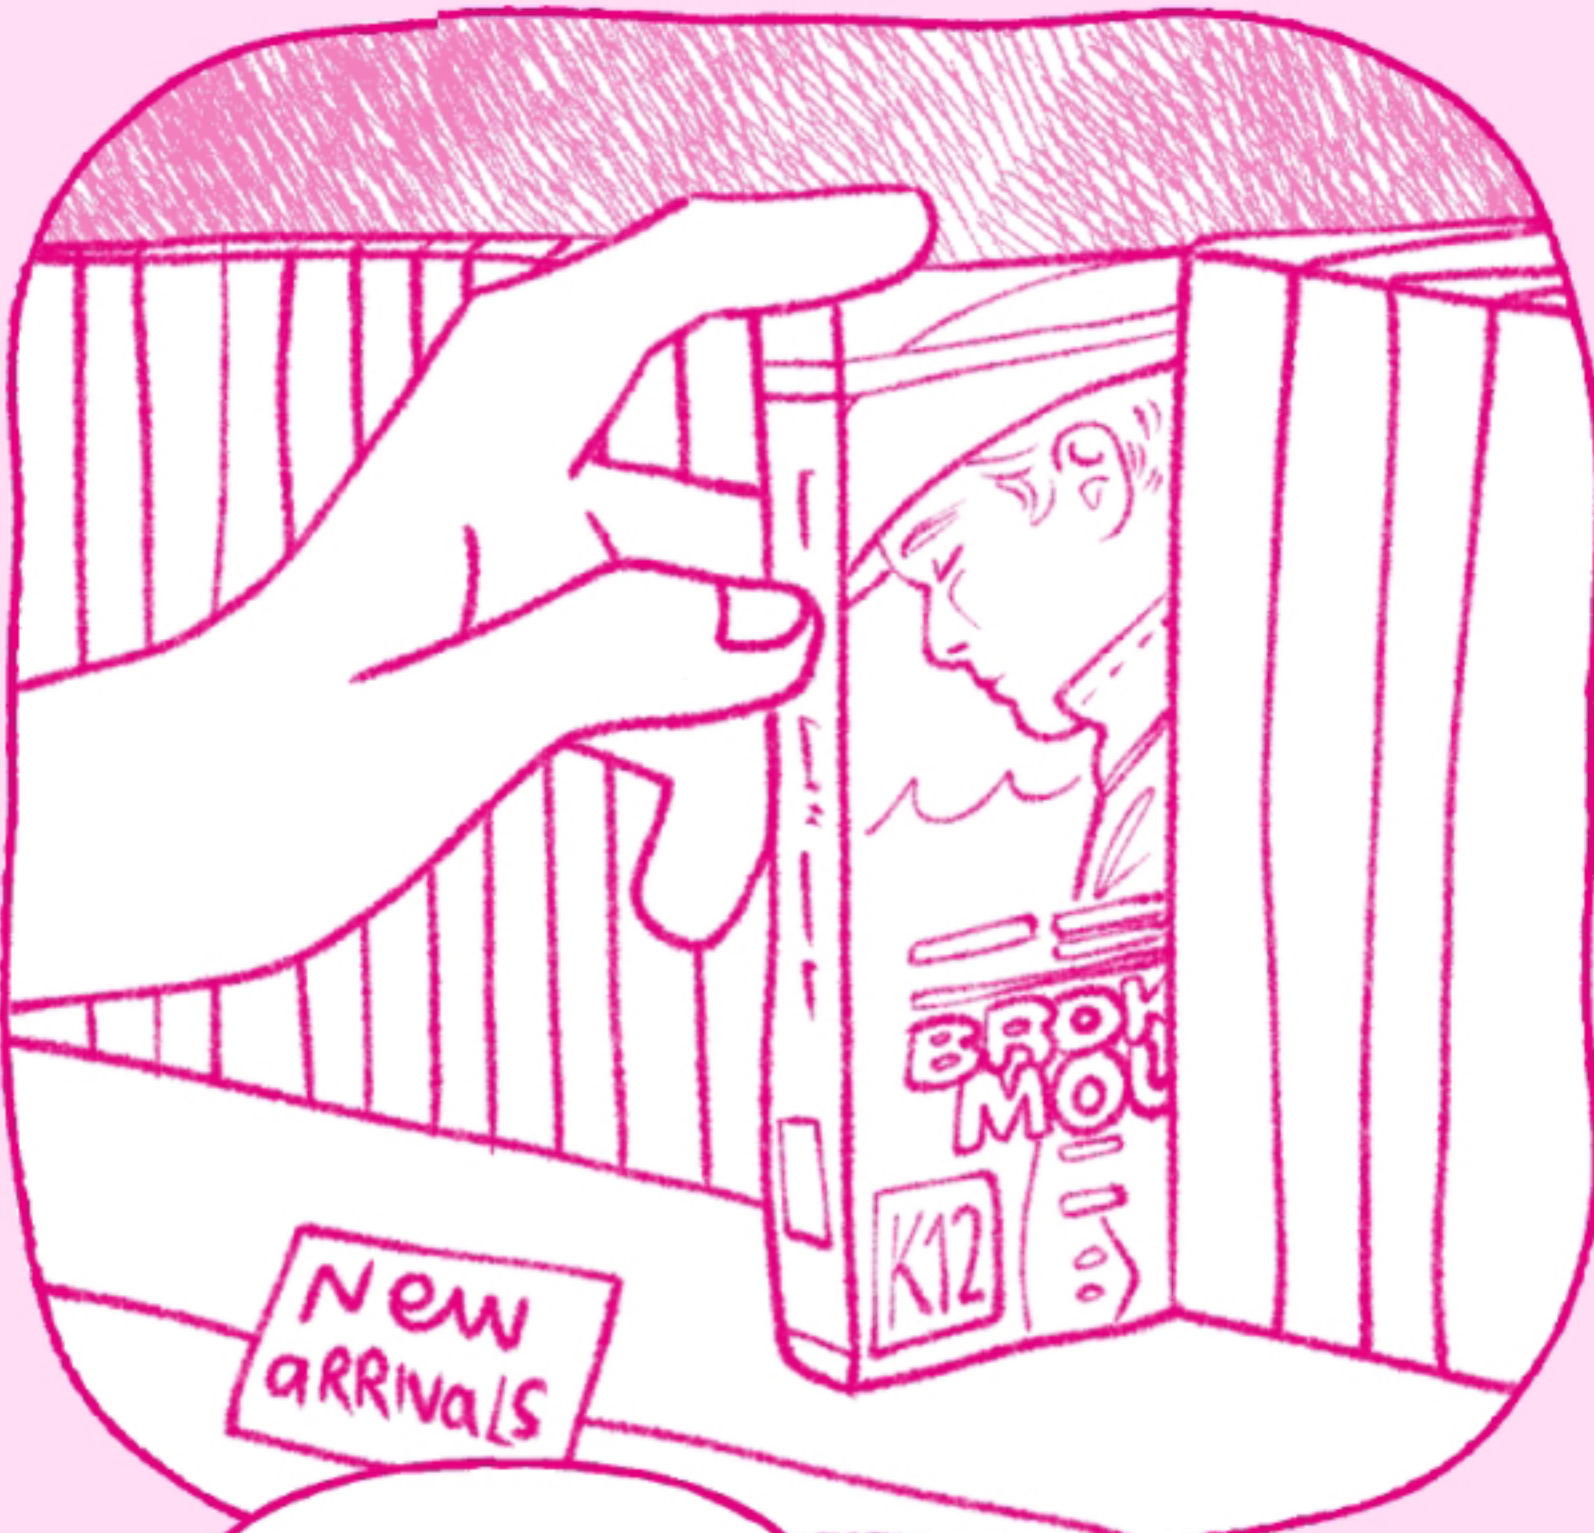

For an example, sometimes a movie that's supposed to be great for gay people is full of weird homophobia.

Yeah, I just get so nervous about queer people, especially gay men, are portrayed.

I haven't always been so sensitive about gay media though.

But that's exactly what people do.

To some, being gay is synonymous with anal sex.

And they feel comfortable reducing your whole being into a sexual act they likely don't know much about.

Of course there's nothing wrong with anal sex. But it's just another way to have sex.